

If you've been following the court case between the public officials and the newspaper at Lake Charles, La., you'll be interested in an editorial from the Anniston (Ala.) Star.

What makes this editorial pertinent is its discussion of criminal libel, with which the Lake Charles editors are charged, as opposed to civil libel, whose laws provide for normal procedure against an offending newspaper.

From the Anniston (Ala.) Star:

Lake Charles Travesty

When the Rev. William O. Byrd, Methodist minister of Lake Charles, Louisiana, hit upon the idea of padlocking the doors of his church some weeks ago, thus preventing the members of his congregation from entering and joining in worship, he provided an arresting analogy to the indictment of five newspapermen of Lake Charles on charges of criminal defamation. It's not always easy, when personalities are involved, for the public to understand how any one of the basic American freedoms might be endangered. But when there is the tangible evidence of a locked door, whether of a newspaper office, church or other symbol of the free American way of life, the public is made to realize that its rights have been abridged.

The Rev. Mr. Byrd has made a valuable contribution to better public appreciation of what is at stake in the trial which, starting today, casts the managing editor of the Lake Charles American Press in the role of defendant, charged with criminal defamation. His four co-defendants, the publisher, the associate publisher, the city editor and a reporter, are to be tried when this first case is finished. The prosecutions are based on an anti-gambling campaign, during the course of which, with the five newspapermen as principals, it was brought out that the local district attorney's office was showing undue leniency insofar as enforcement of anti-gambling laws was concerned. Allegedly defamed were the district attorney and one of his assistants, the sheriff, a 13-member police jury, three admitted gamblers and a fourth individual.

Counsel for the defense advisedly insists that the "current" proceedings represent a distinct threat to freedom of the press. The traditional remedy in the United States for publication of statements, proved to be false, is the award of appropriate damages in a civil suit. This remedy has been described quite accurately as often "expensive, difficult and encumbered with technicalities." And for these reasons the Hutchins Commission on the Freedom of the Press suggested in 1947, as "an alternative to the present remedy for libel, legislation by which the injured party might obtain a retraction, or a restatement of the facts by the offender or an opportunity to reply."

The American libel and defamation laws are not unlike the British laws but British juries are more prone than American ones to grant substantial damages in libel and defamation suits. The result has been that British newspapers are more cautious about expressing opinions, and about crusading against abuses, to a degree that American newspapermen regard as unhealthy.

It was in the fine tradition of this country's free press that the Lake Charles daily joined with a group of alert, responsible local citizens in an effort to stamp out wide-open gambling in Calcasieu parish (or county), whose government is located in Lake Charles. The subsequent indictment of the newsmen by a parish grand jury is of a piece with the intimidation practiced against the Louisiana press in the days of the late Huey Long. An attempt has been made to silence a forthright newspaper which has dared to criticize public officials and which, in addition, has been able to assemble a mass of evidence in support of its charges in the premises.

It's not, as the prosecution would have the public believe, that the American Press maliciously printed material tending to deprive certain individuals of public confidence while also exposing them to "hatred, contempt and ridicule." The job now is one for the courts where, with proper regard for the rules of evidence and procedure, a sorry state of affairs can be set aright.

UN in Offer to Try to Break Deadlock

Panmunjom, Korea, Jan. 28 (UP) — The United Nations gave the Communists today a blueprint for the exchange of war prisoners in their second effort in two days to break the Korean truce deadlock.

The Reds agreed to study the new 14-article plan. But they first accused the U. N. once more of using Korean prisoners for "black-mail."

The prisoner-exchange plan was the companion piece to the U. N.'s lengthy proposal for truce supervision which was presented to the Reds yesterday.

Described by UN delegate Rear Adm. R. E. Libby as "a complete solution" to the prisoner problem, the U. N. proposal includes the same demand for voluntary repatriation which so far has blocked agreement on the issue.

North Korean Gen. Lee Sang Cho ripped into the U. N. proposal although Libby said it was "one of the mildest discussions on record."

In a prepared statement Lee said:

"The intent of your proposal is that because you hold more prisoners you want to use them as black-mail."

The U. N. he said, hides its intent behind "the nice sounding words of voluntary repatriation but I tell you you cannot attain this purpose."

Libby snapped back: "We are not going to give up our insistence on voluntary repatriation."

A Monday meeting of staff officers to consider the U. N. price supervision plan was postponed at the Reds' request so they could study the 17-page document further. The staff officers will meet at 11 a. m. Tuesday (9 a. m. Monday EST).

Libby said after the one hour and 15-minute session that the U. N. is not ready yet to turn the prisoner-exchange question over to staff officers.

He told the Reds that the U. N. proposal included "all pertinent matters" raised by the Reds in their own prisoner-exchange proposal of Dec. 12 "with the exception of forced repatriation and the provision for 'release in groups' which we do not understand."

The plan, he said, "is in all respects a complete solution to agenda item four. We request that you carefully study this proposed solution and that you give us your comments as soon as practicable."

Libby served notice that the voluntary repatriation clause must stand.

"We have not withdrawn one inch from our Jan. 8 stand," he said. On that date the U. N. outlined its insistence that prisoners and civilians must have the right to choose whether they want repatriation.

Illness Fatal to Actress Fannie Ward

New York, Jan. 28 (AP) — Actress Fannie Ward, who sought "eternal youth" and looked like a flapper even in old age, died yesterday at Lenox Hill hospital.

She admitted to being 79 but friends said she was in her 80s. One said 83.

The "Eternal Soubrette" made a glamorous career of seeking the fountain of youth, and said she found it in a secret facial treatment learned from French state star Gaby Deslys.

Her efforts to stay young permitted her to play a 14-year-old when she was at least 40 — made her an international celebrity for more than half a century.

Miss Ward began her career in 1890. She played in more than 50 stage plays and also appeared in vaudeville and in movies.

In recent years, the St. Louis-born flapper lived alone in a Park Avenue apartment. A friend found her unconscious there last Monday. She apparently had been in a coma since the day before and did not recover consciousness before her death.

The actress first was married to Joe Lewis, a South African millionaire, from whom she was divorced. She then married her leading man, Jack Dean, who died in 1950.

Band Concert Thursday to Feature Soloists

The high school band concert on Thursday night will feature three of its members as soloists—Charles Halbert, lead chair trumpet, will play the leading part in a new number by Leroy Anderson called "A Trumpeter's Lullaby." Volmer Dean Boyd will play a saxophone solo, "Intermezzo," by Porrett L. Butcher, accompanied by the band and Bonnie Shirley will play a drum solo by Haskell Harr with Syble Shirley as piano accompanist.

These numbers will highlight the second half of a varied and interesting program. The first half will be given over exclusively to the Schubert Fifth Symphony, played for the first time in Arkansas by any organization. The band arrangement for this symphony is still in manuscript form and has never been published.

Patrons of music in this area are promised a real treat when they attend the band concert Thursday night, January 31, at 7:45 in the high school auditorium. Curtain time has been set back fifteen minutes so that those mothers participating in the Mothers' March on Polio will have opportunity to finish their drive and still arrive in time for the opening number. Admission is fifty cents for adults and twenty five for students.

Russia, Chinese Warned Against More Aggression

Paris, Jan. 28 (AP) — The United States, Britain and France today formally announced they would demand United Nations action in the event of Chinese Communist or Russian aggression in Southeast Asia.

John Sherman Cooper of the U. S. said such aggression would be a matter for "most urgent and earnest consideration by the United Nations." Selwyn Lloyd of Britain immediately declared his government associated itself with this "important statement."

Francis Lacoste of France said his country would demand immediate and effective intervention from the U. N. if the Chinese Reds moved against Indochina.

The three Western spokesmen made their declarations in the U. N. political committee during a debate on the question of condemning Russia for allegedly violating her 1945 treaty with Nationalist China.

Cooper called the committee's attention to implied threats against Southeast Asia made earlier at this assembly session by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky. Cooper said he had been instructed by the U. S. government to "state clearly that any such Communist aggression in Southeast Asia would be in the view of our government be a matter of direct concern to the United States."

Way Cleared for Power to New Plant

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP) — Formal signing of a power contract, which clears the way for new expansion of aluminum production facilities in Arkansas, was set for today in the office of Secretary of Interior Chapman.

Parties to the contract are the Reynolds Metals Co., the Arkansas Power and Light Co., and the Southwestern Power Administration, an interior department agency which handles sale of power from government-owned hydroelectric dams in the Southwest.

Today's signing was a formality, since all parties agreed to terms of the contract last week after several months of negotiations, which threatened to break down from time to time. A breakdown might have meant loss of the plant to Arkansas.

Florida Is Expanding — Most Cities Have Caught Up With Sidewalks Built in Thickets

By HAL BOYLE
Somewhere in Florida, Jan. 28 — Some vacation notes scribbled on an old palm leaf:

Florida is expanding so fast that most cities now have caught up with the sidewalks built far out into the palmetto thickets 25 years ago.

New businesses have been started here at a higher rate than anywhere else in the nation. Many of the new pioneers are young veterans, stationed here curing the war, who fell in love with the climate and came back to launch their civilian careers. Their home-building and industry-creating activities have given a fresh impetus to "The Peninsula State."

Florida is a land of reward now for almost any fresh talent. For example, anyone who likes to turn his hand to new jobs might find a real opportunity in a recent newspaper ad offering $75 a week for an alligator wrestler.

When I remarked the pay didn't seem too attractive, an oldtimer remarked: "Well, the hours are short — and it's more than the alligators get."

Draining swamps and tourists are standard sources of wealth. Great herds of cattle Florida now raises more beef than any state east of the Mississippi — on acres where only rattlesnakes and cockleburrs thrived a generation ago.

The tourists graze in shiny pastel million-dollar beachfront hotels that still pop up like giant jack-in-the-boxes.

Pastor to Distribute Money

Jackson, Miss Jan. 28 (AP) — A Baptist minister named custodian of $930 found blowing around a southside neighborhood expects to settle its ownership this week.

Dr. W. W. Valentine said today there "probably will be a definite settlement in a few days."

Discovery of a pair of $20 bills by two children a couple of weeks ago touched off a treasure hunt that drew hundreds of the South Congress Street area.

There were hundred dollar bills, ten dollar bills and some more twenties. They were caught on shrubs, lying in drainage ditches and beneath leaves.

Dr. Valentine found more than $200 himself. Detectives called to investigate shrugged in disbelief until they found $150. Then they told Dr. Valentine to collect as much of the money he could, keep track of who found it and hang onto it until its owner could be found.

Only clue so far was a cab driver's report that one of his passengers threw a $400 bill from his cab window in the area.

The car driver said he later drove his passenger to a Hot Springs Ark., sanitarium.

Dr. Valentine said the cab passenger had not contacted him yet about the money but he expects him this week. A representative has been to see him, the minister added.

Mothers' Polio March Set for Thursday Night

Porch lights will be burning for an hour throughout Hempstead County on the night of January 31 when the Mothers' March on Polio will be launched as the climax of the 1952 March of Dimes, it was announced Monday by Andy Andrews, campaign director.

The burning lights in hundreds of thousands of homes will be the signal to an army of volunteer mothers that they will be welcomed to receive contributions to the March of Dimes.

The Hempstead County March of Dimes Committee has designated the hour between 7:00 p. m. and 8:00 p. m. as the time for this dramatic windup of the campaign against infantile paralysis, the director declared. The local "Mothers' March on Polio," he continued, is part of an identical nationwide movement in which hundreds of thousands of mothers will participate.

"Turn on your porch light to fight polio" is the theme of this special appeal by the mothers of the nation in behalf of the men, women and children who have suffered from infantile paralysis, the director said. The lights of American homes, he continued, also will serve as a symbol of hope to those who may be stricken in the future.

Council Head Warns of '52 Cotton Problem

New Orleans, Jan. 28 (AP) — If there is a big reduction in the 1952 cotton crop, the industry may find itself in a "desperate situation," the president of the National Cotton Council said today.

Harold A. Young of North Little Rock, Ark., told members of the council, gathered here for its annual meeting, that the cotton farmer is looking for assurance that available supplies and market conditions will be favorable to increased production.

Young said that a decreased cotton crop would prove dangerous. "If there is a big reduction," he asserted, "and the demand continues to be strong, we may yet see our industry in the most desperate situation it has ever experienced."

However, Young said, the council would not attempt to tell cotton producers just how much of a crop to grow. The reason for this, he declared, was that farmers have lists of alternate crops they may wish to plant.

The cotton council president said the organization had broken precedent in 1951 to urge farmers to turn out a large crop, due to the Korean emergency.

He reported that the response had been excellent, and that the 1951 crop recorded a 50 per cent increase over 1950, far surpassing the growth of any other commodity.

In addition, Young said, synthetic fiber manufacturers failed to register an increase for the year, and foreign cotton growers also remained at previous levels.

The cotton group's leader told his listeners that the 1951 expansion was not easy for the industry to assimilate.

"It was unprofitable... unpleasant... unsafe... and filled with headaches and heartaches every step of the way. It created disappointments and dissension within the industry."

Young criticized restrictions on the growers, especially price ceiling clamp-downs, which, he said, "achieved nothing" and seriously hampered production.

He also predicted that "the emergency... is behind us... the farmer in 1952 can look forward to a calmer frame of mind, with a better opportunity to think carefully of the market conditions in front of him."

Another council leader, Boswell Stevens of Macon, Miss., a member of the board of directors, said cotton farmers will be able in 1952 to utilize weather forecasts to advantage in growing a profitable crop.

Frank A. McCord of Memphis signaled out the automotive industry to show how car manufacturers wants are converted into new sales approaches and rose a new techniques in the production of cotton.

Sen. Maybanks Against the President

Washington, Jan. 28 (AP) — Sen. Maybank (D-SC), a key man in Congress on many administration measures, said today he is against another term for President Truman.

And Maybank, Democratic national committeeman from South Carolina, predicted "most of the South" will unite behind Sen. Russell of Georgia for the party's presidential nomination.

"As far as I am concerned, I am for Dick Russell first, last and all the way," Maybank told a reporter.

He has said that much before. But he added this is the first time — 1948 included — he publicly has voiced opposition to nominating Mr. Truman.

The President hasn't disclosed whether he will run again. Over the week-end, Democratic leaders from 13 Midwestern states adopted a resolution calling on the President to be a candidate. They also endorsed Vice President Barkley for another term.

Maybank is chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, which passed on economic controls legislation, defense production measures and other important bills. The committee also recommends Senate approval or rejection of the men Mr. Truman nominates for many top posts.

Maybank has supported a good many administration programs which came to his committee, but he has opposed some, too. Outside the committee's sphere, he — like virtually all Southern lawmakers — has fought the President's controversial civil rights program.

While the senator declined to say just why he is against nominating Mr. Truman again, it is known that his opposition is not based solely on the civil rights issue.

Of late, Maybank has complained openly that his committee has not been consulted by the White House in advance of important nominations by the President.

The most recent instance was proposed appointment of Harry McDonald to head the much-investigated Reconstruction Finance Corporation (RFC). Last Friday the committee refused to approve McDonald for the assignment pending further study of the matter, and Maybank so advised the President.

Mr. Truman replied, Maybank said, that he would not withdraw the nomination.

Earlier, Maybank had gone over Mr. Truman's head and got a promise from W. Stuart Symington — whose resignation the President had accepted — to stay on temporarily as RFC administrator while the committee studied the McDonald nomination.

Farouk Acts to Ease Bloody Suez Fighting

Cairo, Jan. 28 (AP) — A new government was sworn into office today in a move directed by King Farouk and viewed by some Western observers as a step which might ease the bloody and violent dispute between Britain and Egypt.

The new prime minister, "strong man" Aly Maher Pasha, and cabinet took the oath at the Palace, where they were received by the king. A later announcement said the new government would be issued under martial law.

Farouk last night turned Maher Pasha's Pasha's War Cabinet into a new government. The Pasha regime took office at the Palace, where they were received by the king. A later announcement said the new government would be issued under martial law.

and grave concern which would require the most urgent and earnest consideration by the United Nations."

The American spokesman said he was "sure that all of the peace-loving states represented here must share the concern of my government over the threat of further Communist aggression in Asia which may be latent in the Soviet representative's statement of Jan. 27."

In the speech to which Comptroller Viskinsky accused the United States of preparing aggressive measures against Communist China along the South China border. The Soviet diplomat then declared:

"These illegal and flagrant acts of the United States, we can be quite sure, will be declared to be defensive measures against China's aggression whenever events begin to take their course on the southern borders of China, in Thailand, Burma and Yunnan province of China."

Viskinsky did not amplify what he meant by "events," but some delegates construed his remarks as a warning that the Chinese Reds might use the charges of U. S. aggression to justify new military action on the southern border.

Today's American declaration indicated that in case of such attack, the U. S. would call on the U. N. to take action possibly unified military resistance such as that in Korea.

Top military leaders of the United States, Britain and France met in Washington recently to discuss counter moves to any Red aggression in Southeast Asia. Today's statement was the first specific American indication of what action the U. S. would take.

"If we refer at all to the Soviet representative's recent statements, it is because the world is concerned over the possible significance which this statement might have for the future of international peace."

Audit Hearing to Be Resumed

Little Rock, Jan. 28 (AP)—The second session of the Highway Audit Commission's public hearings on operations of the State Highway Department opens here tomorrow.

The investigative group will look into maintenance work of the department in the four-day hearing. Purchasing procedures were examined in the first public hearings.

A survey of vouchers in the state auditor's office shows that the two auditors most frequently mentioned by the commission as "favored vendors" enjoyed in the first six months of this fiscal year.

R. A. Young & Son and Brown & Malone, both of Little Rock, did a $105,175 volume with the Highway Department from July 1, 1951 until Jan. 1.

Saturday he said members of both the Young firm and Brown & Malone were "friends" of his.

Another Russian Bigwig Dies

Moscow, Jan. 28 (AP)—The Soviet press today announced the death of Outer Mongolia's veteran premier, Marshal Chai Bolekhanov, following an operation for a kidney cancer. He was 56.

A communique from the Soviet Union's Council of Ministers said the marshal was "a true friend of the Soviet Union." He had headed the Republic of Mongolia since 1923, in its early days. In 1930 he had admitted the Red Army to Mongolia under a Russian-Mongolian treaty of mutual assistance and friendship.

Tass, the Soviet news agency, said Marshal Chai had been ill for a number of years and that he had arrived in Moscow Jan. 14 for treatment at the Kremlin hospital.

American diplomatic officials have charged several times that Chai Bolekhanov had let Russia absorb his country.

DOROTHY DIX

Second Chance

Dear Miss Dix: While in my teens I married George, whom I did not love but who loved me very much—and still does. He has always been good to me, given me a wonderful home and everything I wanted and is a wonderful provider. Our child and I come first in everything. I also was very good to him but, as he said, being a good housekeeper and mother was not enough. As a result of this incompatibility, he began going out with other women. After fourteen years of marriage, we separated. Then I met, and fell madly in love with, Herbert. He showed me with all the love and attention I craved. I divorced my husband. Though Herbert wanted to get married right away, I decided it would be better to wait until we had saved some money. He became very possessive and jealous; we quarreled constantly and in one of our bitter quarrels, broke up.

Since then, I have been going out with George, to dinner, shows, etc. He asked me to go back to him. He says he doesn't mind if I don't love him as long as we're together.

In my heart I know I love Herbert very much. Shall I go back to George who will be good and kind to me, or shall I marry Herbert and accept his quarrels and bad disposition for the sake of love?

Answer: You are now, I judge, in your early thirties, which is old enough to have sense and outgrow some of the childish ideas you've carried around for years. Lady Luck must have a very special fondness for you, as you're getting a second chance at happiness you didn't deserve in the first place. Few women are so fortunate.

He's A Rarly

You have in George, a man of such loyalty, fidelity and long suffering as is not encountered too often. You have done everything to exhaust his patience, yet he is willing to give you another chance.

You have taken everything from your marriage with him and contributed nothing except, perhaps, good housekeeping, which is poor comfort to a man longing for the love and companionship of a happy wife. Having entered marriage with no love for your husband, you proceeded to acquire a martyr complex and put all the blame for your unhappiness on him. The least you could have done was try to love him, and make him love him, instead of putting on a misunderstood-wife act.

If your romances followed a natural sequence, you'd marry Herbert and live to regret every minute you spent with him. Your good fortune lies in the fact that George stepped back into the picture before you made this fatal step.

If you want happiness in your future, re-marry George but bring to your home, this time, love and understanding. You're old enough to know that love isn't always an emotion of burning passion and high ecstasy. More often it is a companionable, comfortable feeling compounded of mutual respect and admiration. Accept it as such, and give George the affection, devotion and consideration he has a right to expect.

Dear Miss Dix: At 18 I am married and have one child. My husband tells me he loves me, but recently quit his job and went to another state to live. He sold all our furniture, took all the money and never sends me a cent. The baby and I are both with my parents. He's been gone since June comes, to see us occasionally and always borrows the money to go back.

Answer: You are very young to be the wife of so irresponsible a man and you are in need of expert advice. Your husband can be made to support you and his child. Get in touch with the Legal Aid Society or Family Service Association nearest you. They can be located through the telephone book and will be glad to assist you in forcing support from your husband.

Dear Miss Dix: I am one of a group of married women in their late twenties and early thirties. Most of us feel we are not included enough in our husbands' plans. We enjoy hunting and fishing as well as other sports, and would like to be included in expeditions they go on. We think this companionship would be happier marriages.

WIVES CL

Answer: Rarely can a woman get off on a sports expedition and accept all the inconveniences and hardships with the same joy as a man. It's most unlikely that a group of you could all be of the same category. If you are, persuade your husbands to take you on occasionally so you can prove an excellent sportsman you can't. Don't make the attempt, however, unless you know you can wholeheartedly into all phases of the venture. If fishing is the one of the day, be prepared to do the whole job, from baiting to cleaning. Camping out is no luxury either, but that too, must be done fully and enthusiastically accept.

Porkers to Meet Loop Leading TCU

Dallas, Jan. 28 (AP) — Southwest conference cage quintets play five games this week with three of them conference contests of the do-or-die variety.

Baylor jumped out of the conference cellar last week at the expense of Rice Institute, 66-54, while Texas Christian had its shining season record dimmed somewhat by the Oklahoma City University five, 66-41.

Texas and Oklahoma renew their interstate rivalry Monday night in Austin in a non-conference tilt that means a lot to the two teams. They like to wallop the daylight out of each other.

Arkansas tunes up Thursday against Kansas State Teachers in preparation for a Saturday night game against pace-setting TCU at Fayetteville. Meanwhile, Baylor plays Southern Methodist Friday night in Dallas in a game that could be a thriller.

The Baptists could assume the spoiler role in the conference by whipping the Methodists and jump into a contending spot if Arkansas should beat TCU and Texas A. & M. down Texas in their Saturday night game.

That Texas-Texas A. & M. game probably will be the feature contest of the week. Both, along with TCU, are defending champs and the winner could slip to a tie at the top of the heap if the Razorbacks defeat the Christians the same night.

Last week's feature was the Baylor-Rice fray which sent Baylor into a tie with Arkansas for fifth and sixth places. The stars of the tilt was Baylor's Ralph Johnson whose scintillating thirty-point total for the night put him in a threatening position to take over the conference scoring leadership.
